S6-3. IMPLEMENTATION INSTRUCTIONS

Responsibility for establishing written internal instructions on maintaining the EMFS is delegated to each SPMO. SPMOs, with assistance from medical, health and safety personnel, can tailor instructions to their state's specific operating environment but must cover the areas listed in paragraph S6-3 of the FPM. TPR 293-31, Appendix E(ADDED) is an example of an EMFS instruction that meets the FPM requirements. Send one copy of the state's internal instructions to NGB-TN.

SUBCHAPTER S8(ADDED). SUPERVISOR'S WORK FOLDER

S8-1. PURPOSE AND SCOPE

a. Supervisor work folders provide a system for keeping information about those supervised. First-level supervisors keep separate work folders for each technician; higher-level supervisors are not permitted to maintain duplicate work folders.

b. Work folders are part of the Employee Performance File System addressed in subchapter S5 of FPM Supplement 293-31 and are subject to the Privacy Act and Freedom of Information Act.

S8-2. TYPE OF FOLDER, LOCATION AND SAFEGUARDS

a. Supervisors use standard manila folders with the technician's name written on them. A supervisor will not use SFs 66, Official Personnel Folder, as work folders.

b. Folders are normally kept at the supervisor's work site. However, other locations may be used if the work site cannot protect folders from casual access, inappropriate disclosure, and invasion of personal privacy.

S8-3. CONTENT

The following documents are normally maintained in a supervisor work folder:

a. NGB Form 904-1, Supervisor's Record of Technician Employment, is the only authorized supervisory employment record; the SF 7-B or AF Form 971 will not be used to record technician data. SPMO completes items 1 through 7 from available records and advises the technician to notify his/her supervisor when data changes. The remainder of the form is self-explanatory.

b. Performance-related records may be maintained for no more than 3 years. They include but are not limited to performance elements/standards and ratings of record; records kept to track performance; documents concerning reconsideration/appeal of performance-related matters; performance improvement plans; and memorandums or notations of performance counseling.

31 August 1988

c. Conduct-related records are maintained until no longer relevant to a continuing or recurring problem. Only letters of reprimand contain specific disposition dates. Since the SPMO maintains the official file, a supervisor would have no need to keep copies of adverse action records once the action is completed (notations on NGB Form 904-1 is sufficient).

d. Leave schedules prepared annually to assure timely use of annual leave may be filed in work folders or in a central location.

e. Copies of SF 52, Request for Personnel Action, may be kept until action is completed.

f. Copies of correspondence or forms related to training may be kept until training is completed. Training plans may be kept until no longer relevant.

g. Current position descriptions for each basic position may be filed in work folders or maintained in a central location.

h. Documents required for the position (e.g., copies of licenses, professional accreditation, certificate documenting proficiency with equipment or tools used, and firearms proficiency) may be retained until updated.

i. Other records which are valuable in reaching decisions on what course of action to take with regard to technician's employment.

j. Copies of documents supporting an award or commendation may be kept until action is completed.

k. AF Form 55, Employee Safety and Health Record.

l. Military appraisal required by TPR 300(351) are replaced annually.

NOTE: Letting a technician know that information has or will be added to the work folder can help to reinforce both positive and negative events.

S8-4. DOCUMENTS PROHIBITED

The following documents are prohibited from being filed in a supervisor's work folder:

a. Copies of SFs 50 once the NGB Form 904-1 has been posted. The employee copy of the SF 50 will be given to the technician concerned. If it is other than the employee copy, it will be destroyed.

b. Security investigative records or reports.

c. Pre-employment vouchers or telephone inquiry notation.

d. Letters of indebtedness which have no bearing on a technician's ability to perform his/her duties or the reputation of the National Guard.

e. Medical records.

f. SF 181, Race and National Origin Identification, or SF 256, Self-identification of Medical Disability.

g. Photographs of personnel.

h. Training certificates.

i. Resumes.

j. Personal notes as outlined in S8-6.

S8-5. ACCESS

Upon request, a technician must be allowed to review the work folder pertaining to him/her. Technicians wishing to provide access to another person must provide the supervisor written notification which specifically identifies the person to be given access and the records to be provided. The record can be disclosed to other officials/employees who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties.

S8-6. PERSONAL NOTES

Personal notes maintained as memory aids are not official agency records and are not subject to the Privacy Act because they are (a) retained for the personal use of the supervisor; (b) are not circulated or shown to anyone else; and (c) are retained or discarded solely as the supervisor sees fit (not under regulatory control). Such notes may not be maintained in the work folder (see paragraph S8-4j above).

S8-7. RETENTION AND DISPOSITION

a. Except as outlined in paragraph S8-3, work folder records can be retained indefinitely, provided they are relevant and necessary in carrying out supervisory responsibilities.

b. Work folders will be destroyed within 90 calendar days after an action occurs which separates the technician from employment in a particular State. SPMOs can have supervisors destroy work folders or may require the folders be sent to the SPMO for review and disposition.

APPENDIX D (ADDED).

EXAMPLE OF AN EMPLOYEE PERFORMANCE FILE SYSTEM INSTRUCTION

1. Purpose and Scope: The Employee Performance File System (EPFS) provides a method for maintaining performance-related records that:

- a. Assist rating officials in monitoring and rating performance;
- b. Provide technicians with information on their actual performance and how their performance may be improved; and
- c. Form the basis for decisions involving pay, assignment, reassignment, promotion, reward, training, retention standing, reduction in grade, or removal actions.

2. Location: Performance-related records for each technician are maintained in separate Employee Performance Folders (EPFs) located in the Support Personnel Management Office (SPMO) and in supervisor's work folders (see subchapter S8(ADDED)). Performance data is maintained as part of the National Guard Bureau and this State's technician computer data base.

3. Type of Folders: A (enter type of folder used) is used in the SPMO. Supervisor work folders are standard manila folders with the technician's name written on them.

4. Manager: The SPMO has overall responsibility for the EPFS with the (enter title of position) delegated responsibility for day-to-day operation.

5. Contents: The following list represents performance-related records most likely found in the EPF.

- a. Performance elements/standards.
- b. Technician ratings of records.
- c. Military appraisal required by TPR 300(351).
- d. Documents created during the request for reconsideration/appeal process.
- e. Documents concerning the denial of a within-grade increase or reflecting that a request for reconsideration has been made and its outcome. (This does not eliminate the need to establish separate reconsideration files as outlined in 5 C.F.R. 531.410(a)(2)).

31 August 1988

f. Records documenting the action of the State Impartial Review Board or State Performance Standards Review Board.

g. Records kept during a rating period to track performance (e.g., quality control records and production records).

h. Performance improvement plans, memorandums or notations of counseling or progress review sessions including those made on NGB Form 904-1.

i. Other records which are valuable in reaching decisions on what course of action to take with regard to a technician's performance.

j. Documents supporting an award or commendation based on performance (e.g., NGB Form 32).

k. Requests or recommendations for training along with any related records regarding selection, nonselection or performance while attending training. Copy 1, DD Form 1556 will continue to be filed in the OPF.

l. Documents required by the position (e.g., copies of licenses, professional accreditation, certificates documenting proficiency with equipment or tools used and firearms proficiency).

6. Safeguards and access: All EPFS records will be protected against casual access; inappropriate disclosure to management officials or others outside this agency; and inappropriate invasion of personal privacy. Those maintaining EPFS records must use caution and discretion in securing and disclosing such records. Retrieval of computer-based performance data is by access code with audit trail. Access by a technician or representative to EPFS records will be handled in the same manner as access to OPFs.

7. Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and Privacy Act: All records in the EPFS are subject to the FOIA and Privacy Act; Office of Personnel Management (OPM) and NGB regulations implementing these Acts; and are part of OPM's Government-wide Privacy Act system of records identified as OPM/GOVT-2.

8. Retention and disposition of EPFS records: EPFS records (manual/automated) are generally retained for a maximum of 3 years. Obsolete documents may be torn into pieces to preclude reconstruction and placed in regular trash containers, and magnetic tapes/disks are erased. When practical and cost-effective, records may be marked obsolete and returned to the technician concerned. The following specific rules apply:

a. Unless related to an ongoing proceeding, performance ratings and any documents related to that rating (e.g., standards, summary ratings, quality control records, reconsideration/appeal records, award documentation, counseling notations and WIG documentation) will be retained for 3 years. The

3-year timeframe begins from the date of final action on the performance rating; that could be the date of the approving official's signature on the rating or, if appealed, the date of final action on appeal.

b. An EPFS record needed in connection with an administrative or judicial proceeding may be retained as long as needed, but it cannot be used as a basis for future actions.

c. The 3-year retention schedule does not apply when an administrative or judicial ruling requires earlier removal.

d. If a technician's performance continues to be acceptable for 1 year, the performance improvement plan will be removed from the EPFS. The 1 year begins from the date of the plan.

e. Automated EPFS records may be kept beyond the 3-year retention deadline for statistical analysis only. Such records cannot be used as a basis for future actions.

f. Documents required by the position (e.g., licenses and proficiency certificates) are maintained until updated.

g. When a technician leaves this State's employment, any performance ratings that are 3 years old or less, along with the performance plan upon which the latest rating is based, are sent with the OPF to either the next servicing personnel office or to the National Personnel Records Center (NPRC). Any required summary rating must also be forwarded with the OPF. (This does not include military appraisals required by TPR 300(351)). All other performance-related records of former technicians will be disposed of within 1 year after separation from employment. If the technician is employed back in the State prior to record destruction, the EPFS documents will be purged for outdated material.

h. When an OPF is received from NPRC, performance ratings and supporting documents more than 3 years old will be disposed of. This includes a review of the permanent side of the OPF to ensure that previously authorized long-term ratings of "Outstanding" and "Unsatisfactory" are no longer on file.

i. Military appraisals required by TPR 300(351) are replaced annually.

APPENDIX E (ADDED).

EXAMPLE OF AN EMPLOYEE MEDICAL FILE SYSTEM INSTRUCTION

1. Purpose and Scope: The Employee Medical File System (EMFS) provides a method for maintaining and disposing of medical records for Federal civil service technicians. The system provides for more effective management of medical records and protection of sensitive medical records, and ensures compliance with OSHA medical record keeping requirements.

2. Location: Technician medical records located in the SPMO are maintained in separate Employee Medical Folders (EMF). Additionally, technician medical records are located in (list specific locations). With the exception of test scheduling data, technician medical records are not automated. Supervisor work folders do not contain technician medical information.

3. Type of file: a. The SF 66-D is used by the SPMO. It is the official file which accompanies technicians throughout their Federal civil service career. Other locations listed in paragraph 2, above, use standard manila folders with the technician's name written on them.

b. SFs 66-D received from other agencies or the NPRC for newly hired technicians will be used by the SPMO. Records in these files may be placed in another location (e.g., medical surveillance file) as long as the integrity of the record is maintained.

4. Manager: The SPMO has overall responsibility for the EMFS with the (enter position title) delegated responsibility for day-to-day operation of the system.

5. Contents: a. This State follows FPM Supplement 293-31 guidance on the types of documents that can and cannot be filed in the EMFS. This written instruction will be updated if this State adds a short- or long-term document to the EMFS that is not addressed in FPM Supplement 293-31.

b. At this time, EO 12564 has not been implemented for technicians employed under 32 USC 709. Drug-testing records created as a result of Guard membership are maintained in accordance with military directives and are not part of the EMFS.

31 August 1988

6. Technician versus Military Medical Records: Because of the dual status requirement, most technicians will also have military medical jackets. Records created as a result of Guard membership (hearing test given as part of military physical) will continue to be filed in the military medical jacket. Likewise, records created because of a technician's Federal civil service employment (e.g., hearing test required under OSHA medical surveillance regulations) must be filed in the EMFS. One system does not negate the need for the other.

7. Safeguards and Access: a. All EMFS records are protected against casual access, inappropriate disclosure to management officials and others outside this agency, and inappropriate invasion of personal privacy. Those maintaining EMFS records must use caution and discretion in securing such records.

b. To avoid misfiling and casual access, SFs 66-D maintained in the SPMO are kept apart from OPFs and EPFs. EMFS records maintained at locations outlined in paragraph 2 are stored in lockable metal file cabinets in secured areas.

c. Technicians have the right to personally review their EMFS records and, upon request, be provided a copy at no cost. However, when EMFS records contain information which a physician would hesitate to inform the technician about, the SPMO, based on medical advice, can apply special access procedures and release those records only to a physician or other person (e.g., clergy) named in writing by the technician.

d. Technicians wishing to provide access to another person may do so by providing the SPMO with a written notification which specifically identifies the person to be given access and the records to be provided.

e. The SPMO must ensure that medically related employment decisions are appropriate and consistent with OPM and NGB regulations.

8. Privacy Act: a. All records in the EMFS are subject to the Privacy Act and Office of Personnel Management (OPM) and NGB regulations implementing the Privacy Act, and are part of OPM's Government-wide Privacy Act system of records identified as OPM/GOVT-10

b. The routine uses of EMFS records are limited to those outlined in OPM/GOVT-10. These routine uses are permissive in nature; no disclosure (routine or otherwise) will be made without SPMO clearance. This control will protect the confidentiality of EMFS records and the confidentiality of the doctor/patient relationship.

c. All disclosures of EMFS records must be accounted for. If the disclosure accounting documentation pertains to a long-term EMFS record, it is filed as a long-term EMFS record; short-term disclosure accounting becomes a short-term EMFS record.

d. Under the Privacy Act, technicians are permitted to request amendment of EMFS records, including removal of a document or substitution of one medical opinion in lieu of another.

9. Freedom of Information Act (FOIA). The SPMO will handle any FOIA request pertaining to EMFS records.

10. Retention and Disposition of EMFS records: a. Long- and short-term EMFS records are retained for the duration of a technician's employment with this State. When a technician separates, the SPMO retrieves EMFS records being maintained in any of the locations identified in paragraph 2, above, and determines whether such records are long- or short-term documents. Long-term records are placed in the SF 66-D and forwarded to the next employing agency for continued use or to the NPRC where they are retained for 30 years. Short-term records are retained in the SPMO for 5 years from date of separation. They are then disposed of by shredding, burning or erasure of disks or tapes.

b. If a technician returns to employment in this State prior to record destruction, those short-term files will be made part of EMFS active files.

c. When a technician who has Guard membership separates for any reason from employment with this State, a notation will be filed as a long-term record to alert others that military medical records do exist and how those records may be obtained for review.
